Busy Methodist, This Is For You!

THE PERIODICAL KEY is valuable to you only in proportion to the number of ways you use it. Therefore, we welcome all suggestions that come to us about the uses our subscribers have evolved for solving practical problems with the help of THE KEY. In this issue we will look at the over all picture in the local church. In each successive issue we will discuss in more detail a specific aspect of the use of THE KEY. Here are a few suggestions that have already come to us, or that we have thought up ourselves.

1. Mark the list of magazines indexed by THE KEY so your people will know which ones are available to them, and where---whether through the church library, the pastor, the various commission chairmen, or through other teachers and workers in your church.

2. Have a complete file of THE KEY at every planning meeting you attend in whatever capacity--commissions, official board, committees, Woman's Society, workers' conferences, Methodist Youth Fellowship, Methodist Men, study classes, membership training conferences.

3. In counseling with leaders, privately or in leadership training sessions, point out sections in THE KEY to watch regularly; point out references relating to specific problems; or assign articles for reports in training sessions.

4. In recruiting leaders, show them helps which will be available to them, pointing up particularly articles which will give them a good picture of their intended jobs.

5. Use THE KEY to help you decide which periodicals should be ordered by your church library, or for specific leaders. Also, in the book review section, use it to help select the books for your church library which would cover specific needs not covered by the books you now have.

6. When guest speakers come to your church, use THE KEY to discover as much about them as possible--what articles they have written, what are the fields in which they are considered interested or expert, whether or not biographical material about them is available to you. This information will be useful for introducing them, as well as for making the best use of them in your particular situation.

7. Use THE KEY as an aid in the actual selection of guest speakers or leadership training personnel to fit your local problems, also in ascertaining what persons are available for such purposes in your geographical location.

8. In teaching--either church school or study classes--THE KEY will help you find pictures, maps, charts, or films to use as resource material; also, to find approaches and techniques which will appeal to your particular group or class.

9. In preaching or other public speaking, it will be an aid in your search for applicable illustrative material, pertinent and accurate fac-

OUR 'BEST LAID PLANS'

Though we previously announced we would combine our January and February issues, this has not been done due to a delay in the arrival of a number of the February periodicals for us to index.

We also announced this issue would appear the middle of February. This, too, we failed to accomplish. The reason for this is more complicated. The anticipated baby arrived January 18 (a boy). While we have been able to arrive at a working compatibility between him and THE KEY, it was not in time to meet that schedule.

And so, once more we have revised our plans. We have added another member to our staff, at the same salary as that received by the editor ---nothing! At the risk of being accused of the questionable practice of nepotism, we hasten to explain that this new staff member is the editor's sister, Mrs. Leslie Nash. (Who but a relative would do so much for so little?)

With two regular staff members instead of one and the able assistance of friends on minor activities, we expect to get back to our time table by April 1 (unless we turn out to be the folk for whom that day is noted). This will mean the next two issues will come rapidly following this one.

It has been suggested that we make this publication regularly into a quarterly. We would like to have the opinion of our subscribers before making any such change. If you have any preference as to the frequency of this index, we would like to know what it is. If we do not hear from you, we assume that either monthly or quarterly will be equally satisfactory to you.
